

You have broken me, scattered me;

You have left me

wounded and empty.

Dark

waters overwhelm me.

You ask too much.

Psalm 51; 17

Liz and Jane met on Retreat at St Beuno's Centre in North Wales in February 2010 and a 5 minutes conversation on the last day, sparked a collaboration which over the past year has produced these images and words.

It has been a completely new venture for both of them, and a process which neither understands fully, but which has immeasurably enriched their prayer lives.

These images and words are offered to you in the hope that through them you may find yourway deeper into God and his all-encompassing love.

An abstract painting with a dark, swirling background of blues, purples, and greens. A central, bright, and somewhat circular area is composed of white, yellow, and red tones, creating a focal point. The overall texture is dense and layered, suggesting depth and complexity.

Deeper into God

‘Meditations
through art and words’
by Liz Kirby & Jane Butler

@ Holy Trinity Church
Long Melford, Suffolk
Sun 3rd – Fri 15th July 2011